Thank you for scheduling your well woman exam today. A "well woman exam" is classified as a preventive or wellness visit, focusing exclusively on preventive health measures. This visit is not intended to diagnose or treat medical conditions.

If your provider addresses and/or treats additional health concerns during this visit—such as heavy or irregular periods, pelvic pain, infections, or hormone replacement therapy—rather than scheduling a follow-up or sick visit, your health insurance company may impose an additional patient liability for those services. While most insurance plans cover one preventive health visit, some may not. We encourage you to verify your coverage with your insurance provider if you have any questions.

Additionally, our office now offers genetic testing through Natara. Please be aware that discussions regarding genetic testing may not be classified as preventive health and may incur copays, deductibles, or coinsurance according to your plan.

If you require further clarification regarding potential additional fees for services rendered during today's visit, we invite you to discuss your concerns with your provider.

I acknowledge that I have read this notice prior to my appointment and understand that additional charges may apply depending on the issues addressed or treated during today's visit.
